

Baby Food Relay Race

Explain to the children that many missionaries eat foods that some Americans might think are rather strange.

Divide the kids into two groups for a relay race. Each child will run down to a table where the two jars of baby food are situated. They will dip in a spoon and take a bite. They have to swallow the food before returning to tag their team mate.

